VOL. 32, NO. 48

CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1927.

Following lengthy discussion of a proposal to unite the county fairs of Merced and Madera Counties at Chowchilla, the matter was put in the hands of a committee to investigate the sentiment in farm centers. Final decision will be made at the next meeting of Merced County Farm Bureau board of directors.

Roland Reed, Imperial county date grower, has reported the recent sale of 1000 offshoots from his eight-acre orchard in Borego Valley. The usual price for offshoots of the varieties represented is $15, but it is said that Reed received more than that. The fruit from the orchard is said to have brought from $500 to $1000 an acre to its owner the past season.

Samples of flax grown on the Peterson Ranch south of Lemoore are on exhibition at the office of the county farm adviser. A tract of about fifteen acres was planted as an experiment this season and the farm adviser believes the yield and quality in this test plot are such as to justify a possible but cautious increase in production of this textile crop.

The annual report of Julius Deggleman, manager of the Escondido Valley Poultry Association, states that sales of feed and supplies by the organization for the past year amounted to $180,000 and represent a total of 3600 tons. There are 260 members of the association, most of whom market their eggs through the Poultry Co-operative Association of Southern California.

A new establishment known as the Meyenberg Laboratories is preparing to begin the manufacture and marketing of evaporated goat's milk at Soledad. It is said that at present no condensing plant in the world is turning out this product. This is believed to be of particular interest to milk goat raisers as affording a possible future market for an increasing quantity of their milk.

Two hundred fifty acres have been planted to cantaloupes and 100 acres to watermelons in the Weed Patch and Arvin districts this season, from which growers expect to harvest 110 cars of the former and ten to fifteen carloads of the latter. The prospects for the two crops are excellent, the plants having suffered no damage from the frosts, although the cool weather has retarded somewhat the time of maturity.

The peach crop for the Oroville district is expected to be from seventy-five to eighty per cent normal. This is according to F. F. Simpson, manager of the Sunical Packing Company, which will start canning peaches about July 15th. The crop this year, it is said, will be a trifle lighter than that of last season. Approximately 350 persons, chiefly women will be employed at the Oroville plant when the packing is at its height.

Legislation by Assemblyman Charles Duval of Chico abolishing the Richardson State land settlement board and its salaried chairman, C. M. Wooster of San Francisco has been signed by Governor Young. While the board will pass out of existence, statutory provisions for supervision of the State agricultural colonies at Delhi and Durham will continue in force and the colonies will be placed under control of the State department of agriculture.

Sunlight has been proven to be a vital necessity in the profitable running of poultry farms, according to J. E. Dougherty, associate professor of poultry husbandry in the Branch of the College of Agriculture of the University of California at Davis. Dougherty says that laying hens kept in houses without runs, will not do so well as hens getting plenty of sunlight although the indoor life is partially compensated for by special cold-liver oil feeding, or violet ray lighting.

Harry Purcell, constable, and George E. Trull, night watchman, in the Sunland Packing House Company district near Porterville were recently paid $100 as a reward for the arrest and conviction of two men caught stealing oranges from the Frank Daybell grove. The culprits were arrested after they had loaded a trailer to their car with fruit. Grower members of the Sunland establishment and the Tulare County Lemon and Grapefruit Association have posted signs offering rewards of $100 for every arrest and conviction of fruit thieves.

Golden State News of Interest to All

William Rutheford, principal of the Galt High School, who was appointed official representative of the California High School Principals' Association, will attend the American-Austrian Institute at Vienna during the first part of July. He will also sit as one of the representatives from the United States at the International Institute of Education, which meets at Lacarno, Switzerland, the first of August.

Supplementing tests which determined the horizontal movement of the earth's crust following the disaster of 1906, efforts are now under way by the Coast and Geodetic Survey to establish the vertical movement, according to Capt. Paul Whitney. Thus far, he said, the figures show only slight movement, but the work is being continued to eliminate any inaccuracies which might arise through partial triangulations.

A pine cone unearthed during mining operations near Grass Valley, Nevada county, has aroused the interest of the Carnegie Institute, and is to be examined minutely by scientists in the belief it dates back to prehistoric times. L. G. Beloud, miner who discovered the cone, announced that he has been advised that the specimen comes from a variety of pine tree no longer found in the Sierra Nevada and may be countless centuries old.

A group of big taxpayers of Alameda county will take court action to compel the return of approximately $6,500,000 paid in taxes it is announced. That figure is equivalent to half the total taxes paid to the county. It is said that there are 140 taxpayers involved and that their action will be based on an alleged error by the Board of Supervisors in fixing the tax rate "inside," which applies to the city limits of Oakland.

California's infant mortality rate was only 62.5 per thousand during the last year, the lowest in the history of the state, it is announced by the State Board of Health. The 1926 record was contrasted in the announcement with rates of 68.5 in 1925 and 67.1 in 1924. The lowest rate among the principal cities of the state last year was 33.1 in Alameda. The San Francisco rate was 49.7 and that of Los Angeles was 58.9.

Luther Burbank, internationally known naturalist, who died at Santa Rosa April 11, 1926, left an estate amounting to $168,624.22, it was disclosed when his will was admitted to probate in the superior court last week. Of this amount $62,400 represents real estate and $106,224.22 personal property, stocks, bonds and cash. His widow, Elizabeth Burbank, sole heir and executrix, filed a petition for distribution of the estate.

An anti-gangster bill, designed to prevent repetition in California of eastern crimes and underworld wars in which machine guns have been used, has been signed by Governor C. C. Young. The bill, sponsored by San Francisco police authorities and introduced by Assemblyman Leland R. Jacobson, makes it a felony for any civilian to own a machine gun. The punishment is fixed at three years in prison or a $5,000 fine, or both.

Assemblyman Frank L. Coombs' bill providing state aid in the care and treatment of crippled or physically handicapped children has been given approval by Governor Young. The legislation affects all physically handicapped persons under the age of 18 years whose relatives are financially unable to provide them with treatment. An appropriation of $45,000, including a revolving fund, is made available in carrying out the program.

An abandoned well beneath a building in Modesto's business district was discovered while renovations were being made. City Engineer Frank Rossi estimates that the well was bored forty years ago when parts of the present day business district was considered the "country." The well is 40 feet deep and 4 feet in diameter. The masonry is in excellent condition and although the well is dry it could be made to yield water with little work, Rossi said.

Governor Young and Earl Jensen, director of State institutions, will be urged to reconsider plans to establish a home for narcotic addicts in the vicinity of Sonoma. The plea, which is expected to be sent the chief executive in the form of a protest from the citizens of Sonoma, followed a caucus of more than a score of prominent business men. According to announced plans of State officials the home was to be established on the site of the former Home for Delinquent Women, destroyed by fire.

"LA PRIMAVERA" PAGEANT-DRAMA

Since pageantry was started in the church, in the morality plays and the masques of the thirteenth century, "La Primavera," this year's Los Gatos Pageant, will be of unique interest to those especially interested in religious activities. The theme deals with early life in California, and furnishes a sketch of great historical interest in that the script is written by a descendant of Jose Ortega, one of the founders of Monterey. B. Ignacio Ortega, the writer, has pictured the early Christian fathers of California in a dignified and kindly light.

La Primavera, however, is more than a pageant. It is a pageant-drama. While the development of the theme provides a series of brilliant and entrancing pictures, there is a well defined plot that reaches its climax in the last act.

The last act is one of the most dramatic bits of acting that has been portrayed in any community production in California. Arthur Cyril, director, who has had wide experience on the legitimate stage, with recognized stars, is very enthusiastic over not alone in community dramas but the unfolding of the plot.

Mr. Cyril addressed a large congregation at the Fellowship Church Sunday evening, when he spoke on Pageantry and the Church.

Senator Young Guest Of Rod and Reel Club

Senator Sanborn Young will be the guest of honor at a banquet of the Santa Clara County Rod and Reel Club at San Jose a week from today. Senator Young was asked to be present in view of his fight at Sacramento for the various sportsmen's bills. J. P. Cuenin, editor of the Rod and Gun column of the San Francisco Examiner will also be a guest at the banquet.

The S. C. Rod and Reel Club is one of the liveliest sportsmen's organizations in the State. Dr. Fred A. Curtis is President of the body, and C. F. Hubback, secretary J. O. McKinney of Los Gatos was recently chosen publicity director.

The Sierra Tavern, Truckee's finest hotel, and center of life for motion-picture actors, working in the mountains on snow pictures, was burned last week. The fire started in the elevator shaft and soon enveloped the entire building. Thirty-two men and women guests escaped with practically all their personal belongings. The building was five stories high and contained ninety rooms. The three upper stories had just been completed. The hotel was owned by Tim O'Hanrahan, veteran hotel man of Truckee, whose original Sierra Tavern was burned in 1923. The loss is estimated at $80,000, partly covered by insurance.

California will receive some advertising by the change in names of the West Coast Guard divisions July 1. What is now the southern division, with headquarters in San Francisco, will be known as the California division, and the old northern division, with headquarters at Seattle, will be the Northwest division. Cape Blanco, Or., will be the dividing line between the two divisions. The change in nomenclature has been made, according to Lieutenant F. L. Austin, acting division commander, because the term southern division is misleading and confused with the Gulf division.

The California Olive Association will hold its sixth annual technical conference at Monterey on May 23rd, 24th and 25th, and it is expected that this meeting will be largely attended by olive men from all parts of the state. The conference will be held at the new San Carlos, Monterey's largest hotel.

Richard Melvers, the Harvard graduate who was contented to be caretaker at Deer Lick Springs, or Columbus Springs, in Trinity county, for seven years, left a will bequeathing nearly everything he had to his friend in Redding, George E. Dean, who will receive about $3,000.

In spite of the summer-like weather of the past two weeks, the snow pack is lingering longer in the high ranges of the Sierra Nevada than it has for many years, giving new assurance of a plentiful summer water supply for the interior valleys. While the snow pack is regarded with pleasure by agriculturists and power interests, it is not so good for motorists yearning for an automobile migration into the high altitudes or over into Nevada. The deep snow blanket, well frozen, will keep many mountain highways closed to travel for some time to come.

MORELAND CLUB TO PICNIC

Moreland Good Will Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. Gary Holtum, Payne Avenue, May 11th, Mrs. Zettle presiding. It being open meeting all business was laid aside.

The not going County President, Mrs. J. W. Nixon was present and gave a report of the District Federation held at Willits, and the wonderful trip to and from. She also reported the State meeting at Sacramento. Mrs. Holtum furnished music on Phonograph and Miss Kendall of S. J. H. S. faculty gave a most interesting travelogue of her trip to Spain last summer, showing quite a collection of souvenirs and photographs and also touching upon a short trip to Norway.

The afternoon was a most interesting and instructive one. The social time followed with the hostess serving dainty refreshments.

Adjourned the next gathering being the annual picnic to be held at Kendall Dell.

One of the inspiring events of the club year was a breakfast at Mrs. Margaret Weaver's Rose Banks home on Mac Laughlin Avenue, Thursday, May 5. By special invitation the club and friends motored out, the first event was a walk along the Banks looking at the beautiful collection of roses at their full height of bloom, after which a sumptuous breakfast sure received due attention. Combine all this with beautiful scenery and all nature at its very best, then add a reading by Mrs. Edith Dailey of some of her poems upon roses and nature and it being near Mother's Day, one poem for Mothers and the relation of a little of her acquaintance with the late Luther Burbank, and you will know all the inspiration beyond expression.

108th Celebrated

A number of members of Morning Light Lodge, I. O. O. F. and Ada Rebekah Lodge, of Campbell attended the 108th celebration of the I. O. O. F. held Sunday at the Odd Fellows' home. Several of the state officers were present and gave interesting talks. Vocal numbers were given by a trio composed of Mrs. Nance Hartley of San Jose, Mrs. Laura Allen and Miss Anna Schulte of Campbell. They were accompanied by Miss Myrtle Arnett. Other numbers were sung, Mr. L. J. Carboni with Mrs. Carboni at the piano.

Campbell Wins Meet Over Los Gatos

Friday afternoon the Campbell High School athletes journeyed to Los Gatos to engage in a dual meet with the Cats. The Campbell track and field stars returned victorious. A large squad took part, but two Campbell boys were the outstanding stars. Geo. Reed scored twenty-three and one-fourth out of Campbell's sixty-eight points. Second only to Reed was Oldrich Kalas. Kalas scored twenty-two and one-fourth out of his team's sixty-eight points. These two athletes together amassed nearly enough points to win the meet but other Campbell men took first places.

The final score was sixty-eight to fifty-four—Clyde Scheuermann

PICNIC

Mr. Cutting's two geometry classes held a picnic Tuesday night which was enjoyed immensely. They left the school about four o'clock and drove to the Los Gatos Pool where they had a nice cool swim for about an hour.

From there, the classes went to Long Bridge for the "eats" and dancing, leaving there later in the evening. Everyone agrees that he had a wonderful time.—Annette Merrill.

CAMPBELL GRANGE STEADILY GROWING

Mr. Leroy Anderson talked on legislation at the Grange Tuesday evening. Among other things he read a letter on the proposed increase of teachers salaries that is being asked for in some cities. It was thought that an increase in one place would lead to a demand for more pay all over the state and that the general tendency of the cost of living was downward.

A motion against any increase at present was adopted:

Obligations in the first and second degrees were given to the following class:

Dr. Frank R. Anderson.
Mrs. Elfrida Anderson.
Mr. Antone Ferro.
Mrs. Catherine Ferro.
Mr. Franklin Hichborn.
Mrs. Mable Hichborn.
Mrs. Lydia M. Whitman.
Mr. Burnett Whitford.
Mr. Foster of San Jose grange gave an interesting lecture on Abraham Lincoln, touching some of the more important events of his life, which was listened to with close attention and a rising vote of thanks offered at its close.

Mr. Hedegard spoke on water conservation saying the committee has purchased the Page ditch, the purpose being to distribute the creek water so it will percolate into the soil instead of running off to the bay. The question was asked "Is the valley any worse off for water than ten years ago?" It was shown how many wells had gone dry and others had been put down 100 to 200 feet making the irrigation costs far more than they were formerly.

Mr. Shelley spoke on the importance of spraying chicken houses against mites now that warm weather was coming on. He recommended crank case oil, 5 gallons and crude carbolic acid one quart, or coal oil may be used. Spraying should be thoroughly done and roosts and adjoining parts carefully watched for the insects. Tuesday the 31st of May was selected for a grange picnic at Alum Rock park with dinner at 6:30 p. m.

BRIDGE TEA GIVEN BY MRS. LENOX

Miss Helen Baugh, whose wedding will be an event of the summer and who has been the motif of several social events, was again the guest of honor at a bridge tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. T. Lenox.

Bowls of beautiful roses and peonies, the products the hostesses beautiful garden were effectively placed about the rooms.

The guests present had combined in making a beautiful set of bridge table covers, lunch cloths, and napkins in pastel shades. These were accompanied by small crystal vases for each table.

The refreshment tables were very attractive with green and white nut baskets and a rose bowl filled with Cecil Bruner roses in the midst of which stood a Kewpie bride couple. The score cards were in keeping picturing a dainty bride in gala array.

Mrs. M. E. Kennedy of Gilroy and Mrs. Lawrence Neville of San Jose were out-of-town guests present.

Glad To Be Home

C. W. Wolff manager of the J. C. Ainsley Pkg Co., returned last week from a combined business and pleasure trip to the eastern states and declares that the cold disagreeable weather he experienced more thoroughly than ever convinced him that he is very fortunate to live in this delightful climate. While at Grand Forks, N. D., he was greeted with a real snow storm, the kind that region boasts of. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

REFORESTATION CLUB LUNCH TOPIC

One of the most interesting and instructive lectures it has been the good fortune of Campbell Kiwanians to hear was given Wednesday noon by Mr. Winfield Scott of the California forest preservation organizations. He gave accounts of right and wrong methods of lumbering, destructive fires caused by careless campers and auto parties and told the remarkable strides being made to reestablish the cut over areas.

He stated that without doubt the present Mississippi flood catastrophe would not have happened if the forests farther north had not been cut off. The forest creed is "Replace forests as taken." This is being done in two ways, by natural reproduction and by inter planting of young trees in cut over areas.

Today 50 per cent of the clear lumbe rof the country is found in California, Oregon and Washington. The reforestation project in California is the biggest in the world. Young trees are planted 500 to the acre and this spring the heaviest planting has been done. It is now planned by the various conservation associations and lumber companies to carry on this work so that in 1935 as many trees will have been planted as has been cut since 1850.

Horace Lea acted as chairman and had planned big things he said but time prevented. Harry Smith of the membership committee made a report of condition at close of business as of May 25, 34 when Jos. Bennett gets home.

We are looking forward to another treat next week when J. D. Kuster, district manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Company will give a talk on the manufacture and distribution of gas.

"Persevering" Percy Dunlap will be chairman.

Elsie Merrill and Ruth Newton served the diners.

Jack Murdock announced a program by the Boy Scouts to be given at the Grammar auditorium Saturday (tomorrow) evening and invited all Kiwanians to attend. No charge is made for admission.

Monday, June 6th is all Kiwanis night and all members and wives are urged to be present.

Grows Big Oranges

Ben Curry, one of our boosting real estate men, has a little side line hobby at his own. At his home south of town he takes his daily dozen among his orange trees and thereby grows a fruit just a little bit finer and much larger than many who have larger trees. He has been displaying at his office some of these choice oranges and recently presented the post office force with some fine samples.

Club Picnic Monday

The annual picnic of the Country Woman's Club, which will also be the final meeting of this club year, will be held Monday, June 6th at Congress Springs. Automobiles will leave the library at 10:30 a. m. and those wishing to ride will be provided for. Each member will bring her own dishes, sandwiches and a dish for the table. Suggestions for next year's program will be asked for.

Rev. Bennett Home June 13

Rev. J. H. Bennett writes from England under date of May 7th, that he and his family expected to sail today for Montreal, where they will visit friends.

They hope to reach Campbell about June 13. He wished to express his kindest regards to all, and was anticipating his return home.

The Northern Orange County Fruit Exchange has been called upon for the first time to pay a reward for the arrest and conviction of looters of citrus groves, Dale R. King, manager has announced. King presented P. W. Waite with a check for $50 as a reward for his capture of John Kelly and Dewey Porter, who were subsequently sentenced to six months in the county jail at Santa Ana. They were convicted of stealing oranges from Waite's orchard.

The department of agriculture crop reporting board has estimated the California orange crop at 28,500,000 boxes. This is an increase of 4,500,000 boxes over the December estimate, but the board said, to unusually favorable growing conditions and absence of injury from freezing. The estimate includes all oranges picked during the current crop year, beginning the first of last November and extending until the last of next October. The California orange crop totaled 24,200,000 boxes last year, and 18,100,000 boxes two years ago.

Some horses waste their hay by pulling it out and tramping upon it. This is sometimes caused by feeding two kinds, one especially palatable. In such cases feed the hay so the horse can eat the more palatable first. He will eat the other hay leisurely during the night. Another plan is to withhold the good hay until the other is eaten.

Plans for the planting of 350,000 trout fry in the streams and lakes of Placer county have been adopted by the Placer County Public Anglers Association.

Improvements on Modesto's aviation field, making it one of the best airports between San Francisco and Los Angeles, have been completed. The field, a half-mile long and 600 feet wide, has been leveled and dragged until it is as smooth as a baseball diamond. A large cement marker, visible at a great height, has been placed in the center of the field. The marker is seventy-five feet long and is shaped like a cross. It takes the place of a chalk marker. The cross is a landmark and guide for airmen and it enables them to land at either end of the field, depending upon the direction of the wind. A wind cone has also been placed on the field, which shows the direction of the wind.

J. R. Hall, head of the Sonora forest service, has received a statement of the allotment to the Stanislaus National Forest from the national government for road and trail maintenance for 1927. The appropriations total $12,700, most of which will be applied in Tuolumne county for improvements. The forest was allotted $2,700 for forest trails and $3,500 for the construction of a new road on Soapstone Ridge, in the region below Bowers Cave, Mariposa county. The road will be about three miles long and is being built primarily for fire protection. It is to be constructed on the brink of the Merced River overlooking the deep canyon. The federal government also gave $6,500 for roads throughout the forest.

UNWRITTEN SACRIFICES

(A Memorial Day Editorial)

Once more the people of a nation bow their heads in solemn regard for those who have gone before.

Once more the flowers are strewn across the graves that mark the spot where we last viewed all that was mortal of those we knew and loved.

And once more our thoughts linger upon the divine inspiration that it is the spirit that lives.

Once more Memorial Day comes, the inevitable day.

The deep commanding thud of muffled drum beats upon our ears.

The drolling tones of funeral dirge cause us pause in life's onward rush and think of the realities of the great Afterwhile of which we know so little now.

This one day—May 30—uncommanded by law, but dictated by that which is greater,—the conscience of men—is set aside for our benefit; and the question comes, what shall we do with it?

We can know that to whatever degree we accomplish in life our memory will be lengthened when we have passed on.

But accomplishment is a relative term; and it may not mean achievement in letters or art, nor in statemanship or industry.

It may mean the love that a father or mother were able to bring to us.

It may mean the prattle of little children, or tiny fingers grasping our cheeks.

It may mean the wrinkled faces, the calloused hands, the bent shoulders that worked so hard that we might live and learn and do.

It may mean sacrifices unwritten in the books of history, but carved indelibly in all that we strive for now.

And it is to these unwritten stories of sacrifice and love and forbearance that attention is called; for they make Memorial Day truly universal among all classes.

The brotherhood of man is shown to be real in the contemplation that no matter how high men rise in the accepted scale of success, all must return to the mortal element from which they sprang.

We then begin to understand that it is the soul that develops alike from humble stations and from high positions.

So Memorial Day is the time when the precepts and examples of those who have lived and loved leave their mark upon our memories and are deeply engraved in the hearts of men.

BEWARE OF THE AMATEUR

Hugh D'Autremont, one of the trio of brothers accused of murder and train robbery, and who is on trial in an Oregon court as the only one so far apprehended, stoutly maintained his innocence to newspapermen before the trial. During the past three years while the D'Autremont boys were at large authorities have fastened a chain of evidence around them. It was claimed that much more dynamite was used than was necessary to blow up the mail car of the Southern Pacific train on that fatal October night. This circumstance, together with the brutality used against the three trainmen who met death, showed the job to have been done by amateurs.

It is well to beware of the amateur bandit. He will shoot with wild abandon. The more experienced criminal, especially the one seeking money, is bad enough to be sure; but generally he will not shoot unless he deems it necessary to escape capture. The difference, according to experienced police officers, lies in the fact that the older man knows the tragedy of blood and avoids it if he can; while the amateur either over-estimates his job, gets nervous, or takes for granted that he must kill in order to loot. He is as wrong in his conclusion as he is in his philosophy of life.

SOPHISTICATION IS NOT EDUCATION

The world is growing more sophisticated, but is it getting more educated? Because we advance in science and invention is not conclusive evidence that individual minds are any nearer perfection.

We may have more knowledge of electricity than Bell, know more of physics than Faraday, understood biology better than Darwin, be better adapted to art than Michelangelo, or propound ethics better than Confucius; but whether we have greater powers of reasoning out things or finer senses of values will always remain a moot question.

Notwithstanding the "advance" of modernism, it is doubtful whether the flapper really "knows her onions," or the sheik his "turnips." They know how to drive a car but not a nail. Still there is hope, because machinery has taken the place of hands. But it can never take the place of brains, to a degree where we won't need any; because brains will always be needed to model and build the machinery.

1928 License Plates To Be Blue and Gold

Blue and gold will be the California color scheme for 1928 automobile license plates, it was announced today at Sacramento.

This combination was picked at a conference between members of the board of control and officials of the division of motor vehicles. The background will be blue; letters and numerals will be gold.

These colors will be used for all motor vehicles except trucks and other commercial cars equipped with solid tires. For these, plates will have a white background with red letters and numerals.

Blue and gold were chosen because of the high visibility of the combination and the ease with which state officers may read numbers set in these colors.

The initial order will probably amount to 1,750,000 pair as a heavy increase is expected by the motor vehicle authorities.

A great train of 50 cars, one half a mile in length would be required to haul these plates. They will weigh 750 tons. The plates will be of 26-gauge steel, five inches wide and fourteen inches long.

Although the annual renewal season will not begin until January 1st, bids will be received on June 3rd as all details must be handled early because of the tremendous volume. The bids will be examined by the board of control, division of motor vehicles and state purchasing agent.

The following is the report of Butte County's coming crops, as given by Earle Mills, county horticultural commissioner. Almonds are 65 per cent of a full crop. The second crop of figs will be normal. The first crop was slightly hit by frost in April. The grape crop will average 85 per cent this year. Apples are 90 per cent normal and if sprayed properly should bring growers good returns. The apple crop in Washington this year is much below normal. Oranges and olives are blossoming. It is too early to make an estimate of the size of the crop. The peaches are spotted this year. The freestones will average a fair crop and the clings may reach a 70 per cent normal crop. In many places peaches will have to be thinned and in other places the crop is light. Pears will probably not average more than between 50 and 60 per cent of a normal crop. Prunes will run to 80 per cent normal this season.

The probable yield of rice this year will be 400,000 bags, Merced warehousemen estimate, and they are setting aside as much space as possible for storing it. H. K. Huls of the Merced Elevator Warehouse Company will receive no hay for storage, since he feels that the space can be better used for rice. N. L. Cornell, manager of the Grange Company, believes it will be possible to take care of all the rice unless slack selling causes grain to pile up. Vacant space will be available, since barley is only a 50 per cent crop this year, he says. Contracts are offered at $1.50 for June delivery of barley. Two dollars a hundred is being offered for wheat according to R. L. King, office manager for J. D. Wood, agent for Balfour Guthrie Company. The price should serve to move the grain out of storage, it is said.

IF I WERE A POET

I'd like to be a poet and write about the spring. The country, the birds, the bees, and all that sort of thing. I think I should describe a pretty rippling brook.

Near by it there'd also be a nicely shaded nook.

I'd place myself upon the bank, where I could sit and think; P'raps I'd watch the darkness come as the golden sun did sink.

—Esther Lynden.

SIR CHARLES LINDBERGH

The President sits In Washington town Reading the "Evening Post." "Oh, where can I get good flier To fly this plane for me?"

"Sir Charles Lindbergh Is the best flier That flies his plane for thee." "Oh, send to me this flier That flies my planes for me."

Sir Charles Lindbergh flew his plane. From York to Paris flew he. He started with five sandwiches Of these he ate but three And flew to victory.

—Dave Merrill.

BIOLOGY TRIP

Tuesday the biology class took a trip to Half Moon Bay. There every one climbed out on the rocks at low tide and saw the little animals and plants found in the ocean. The sea palms which are found only on this coast and then only at very low tide were of special interest to the students. Wild flowers were collected on the way and back and the students found many different kinds to add to their collections. The trip proved very interesting and enjoyable.—Polly Maxon.

The Sophomore Picnic

The Sophomore class held a meeting Monday for the purpose of nominating officers for the coming year. Plans were made also for a joint picnic with the freshmen which will be held at Alum Rock, June 3rd. The P. T. A. has kindly offered to set the tables and is planning some kind of nice treat for the classes—Let's go!

A number of the farmers in the Riverbank district are paying particular attention to the chicken business. Several of them are making extensive additions to their poultry equipment and adding to their flocks, as they have found that conditions are exceptionally good for poultry raising.

Mrs. Olive Whitney is having a Cottage erected on her lot on south third street. It has three rooms and bath and when completed will be a very desirable small place to rent.

Mrs. S. W. Dodds was called to Paducah, Ky., this week by the serious illness of her brother-in-law. Mr. Dodds took her to Oakland to make train connections and transacted business in San Francisco.

Princess Gifted With Keen Eye for Business

James M. Beck said on disembarking from the Leviathan in New York:

"Europe has become since the World war very long-headed and cold-blooded and selfish. She is worse than the princess in the fairy tale.

"A princess made it known far and wide that on a certain day she would consider offers for her hand. The day came, and with it a great crowd of noble suitors.

"One by one these suitors passed before the throne of the princess, but she made no sign until a very old prince, the richest of the lot, knelt and kissed her hand and murmured:

"Princess, I would die for you!" "An excellent proposition, sir," said the princess with a gracious smile. "Take that stool on my left, please."

"Then the procession of suitors was resumed, and again the princess made no sign until a young duke, handsome as Apollo but poor as a church mouse, knelt and said:

"Ah, princess, I would live for you!"

"I am yours," said the princess in a low voice, "just as soon as the old gentleman over there dies for me."—Detroit Free Press.

Mussulman Legend as Inspiration for Dante?

Dante's "Divine Comedy" was inspired chiefly by Moorish legendary narratives once current throughout Islam and well known in Spain as far back as the Ninth century, according to Don Miguel Asin, a Spanish professor. This theory has met with determined opposition from many devotees of Dante, loth to admit that his genius could owe anything to outside influence.

But Asin, supporting his case with chapter and verse, contends that Dante drew his conception of the "Divine Comedy," both in regard to the fundamental idea of the allegory and many minor details from an old Mussulman legend describing the nocturnal journey of Mohammed to Isra—the Inferno—and his ascension to the Mirich—paradise.

The general outlines of the Dantesque and Mussulman allegories coincide closely. As protagonists in each narrative, Dante and Mohammed awaken from a deep slumber, and in both cases, set off on a journey at the beginning of which they enter the gate leading to the inferno, guarded by wild beasts.—Manchester (Eng.) Guardian.

Plant Pest as Feed

One of the plant pests which have caused great concern to Australian agriculturists, the ragwort, has now been discovered to be an excellent feed for sheep.

This is the outcome of experiments carried out officially on a farm in Victoria. The ragwort defeated every effort to eradicate it until it was suggested that sheep should be placed on the affected land.

Two hundred sheep in poor condition were turned out on the "block." Within two months the ragwort was cleared, and the sheep were in excellent condition.

Mexican Police Too Hasty

Mexico City newspapers complain that traffic cops are too loose on the trigger. They urge the police to quit shooting at violators of traffic laws. The objection is that the public is doubly imperiled. The pedestrian is not only likely to be run down by automobiles, but he also hazards being killed by a police bullet intended for a motorist. The newspapers say several persons have been killed in recent weeks by shots directed by police at traffic-law violators.

Cause for Celebrating

The death of one of our friends was the cause of our talking about death. I said to my husband: "Well, when I die, don't bother about my funeral. Just put me in a box and put me away."

He replied: "Why, mother, we can't do that. We have to have some sort of celebration."—E. T., in Chicago Tribune.

Costs Little to Operate

A locomotive has been designed that operates at less cost than a small automobile. It is a 100-ton oil-electric locomotive, and made a run from Jersey City to Atlantic City, N. J., 146 miles, at a cost of 14 cents a mile for fuel.

Reporting for the month of April from his office, Frank R. Brann, horticultural commissioner of Tulare County, indicated that the frost damage during the month was spotted in general over the county, being most severe in the Terra Bella district. Aphids are numerous this year in Tulare County, but will not be very troublesome, as there are four species of their natural enemies propagating rapidly and doing good execution. The Valencia season has reached about the peak of the shipping season, and there are no frozen oranges. Citrus spraying has opened in earnest by growers and orchard inspection is nearly complete by the department. Rodent control work is progressing well and poisoned barley season has started.

ON THE ROAD TO SAN JOSE

On the road to San Jose
Where the cute mosquitoes play,
Coming from Alviso bay,
On the road to San Jose.

Oh, I have wandered far and near
Tasting every kind of beer,
But the best I've found I now will say
Is on the road to San Jose.

Where even the guy who delivers the mail
Is full of Canadian Pale Ginger Ale,
Where the bootlegger always receives his pay,
On the wonderful road to San Jose.

Where every one present is full of Home Brew,
And even I am full of it too,
Cause dismay,
Where the drinking is enough to
On the rum-running road to San Jose.

—E. Overshiner.

Because he has no time to take care of his bees and work at his business, William A. Ashbury, Merced, has devised a plan of hiving bees which is attracting general interest. He is producing honey on a commercial scale and running a barber shop at the same time. One of his schemes is to place his apiary near an oak grove. When the bees swarm, he traps them in baited hives fastened in the trees. In two years she has increased his hives from a few stands to 345 and is adding 306 this year. He expects to have 1,000 at the end of 1928.

Deciduous fruit shipments from Tulare county during 1926 exceeded the previous year, and resulted in more money for growers than any other industry in the county, proportionately, in the way of gain, according to a report just filed by Frank R. Brann, Tulare county horticultural commissioner. The watermelon and cantaloupe shipments for the last year were also quite successful, according to the report, while shipments of raisin, table and wine grapes once more brought figures to the credit side of the ledgers instead of resulting in red ink.

Six Toggenburg does were shipped from the University farm at Davis by Professor W. M. Regan of the animal husbandry division, University of California, to Jet Grigby of Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. The consignment consisted of three grade does and three purebreds. Interest in milk goats in the Hawaiian Islands is increasing, according to breeders in California, and the demand for purebreds and good grades is good.

The apricot and peach orchards have bloomed profusely this year in the Hemet valley. Apricot bloom was a little later than usual. The heavy rains of the winter have benefited the deciduous fruit orchards in this district very greatly, and already the fruit growers are predicting heavy yields. There are 2300 acres of peach trees and 3250 of apricot trees, including nonbearing acreage in this district.

According to a special rule of the Modoc County Wool growers association, an assessment of one cent per head is being made covering all sheep grazed within the boundaries of the Modoc National Forest to raise a fund to be used on coyote control work. About $800 will be raised in this way and the funds of the sheepmen are met with a like amount by the county state and federal governments.

Men of giant stature are being sought throughout northern California to take part in the bizarre pirate spectacle that will inaugurate the Shell-Santa Cruz Treasure Hunt, June 5, for $10,000 in prizes buried along the beach of Santa Cruz.

At nine o'clock Saturday night, June 4, the pageant will begin with an attack by pirates upon a ship close to the Santa Cruz shore. After this craft has been set aflame giant pirates, bearing the treasure in chests, will proceed from the beach to the Casino and head the grand march of beautiful pirate girls and treasure hunters in buccanering costumes which will open the colorful pirate ball that will culminate in the election of the pirate king and the pirate queen.

To help in realizing the elaborate conception of the moving-picture technicians who have planned the lighting, costuming, and decorations for the spectacle, Fred Cairns, secretary of the Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce, has requested Chambers of Commerce in various parts of northern California to put the Santa Cruz management in touch with as many men of giant stature as can be found.

George Messer of Tracy, who has been selected to lead the buccaners in the picturesque treasure train, stands six feet eleven inches in his stockings and is built on a massive scale, and it is believed that several other men of even more formidable dimensions can be secured for leading parts in the procession of pirates.

These giants will be delegated to guard the prizes in the Casino while thousands of searchers are digging into the beach for miniature shells bearing numbers corresponding to those marked on the prizes.

The Santa Cruz Chamber of Commerce states that the treasure hunt will be absolutely free of cost and red tape, the only regulations being those necessary to ensure orderly and comfortable control of traffic. Searchers will be given from noon Saturday, June 4 to 2 p. m., Sunday, June 5, to secure clues. The treasure hunt will start at 2 p. m.

During Sunday morning the crowds will be entertained by several diversions, including a Baby Pirate Parade in which youngsters from all parts of the state will compete for pirate costume, character, and beauty prizes, and a Pirate Girl beauty reveue in which pretty girls from all parts of northern California will contend for honors.

Special prizes will be given for beauty and novel costumes to each of the groups entered from the cities of San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton, Sacramento, Fresno, San Jose, and Santa Cruz and grand prizes will be awarded to the prettiest girl in the state and for the best pirate costume of all.

Over one hundred thousand persons were massed on the slopes that recede from Carquinez straits when a varied program of the formal opening of the $8,000,000 bridge took place last Saturday. These spectators included four Governors, United States Senators and Congressmen. Mayors and civic representatives of many California cities, all guests of honor. 50,000 automobiles, it is estimated, were parked near by. The bridge was accepted over the protest of seven steamship companies, who severely criticised the protection around the central pier of the bridge and expressed fear that if a large ship should ever hit this pier, the entire bridge would collapse. A crash against one of the forty by forty foot piers cannot be forestalled with certainty, it is set forth, because of strong tides, heavy fogs and the necessity of turning vessels around numerous pier heads in the vicinity.

Pouring of concrete on the government's $1,000,000 dam at Stony Gorge, forty miles northwest of Orland, Glenn county, the second unit of the Orland colonization project, is now under way. The dam, 125 feet high and 800 feet long, will create a lake 100 feet deep, from which water will be released as needed down Stony Creek to the 20,600-acre colony. It will be completed in the fall of 1928. The project is being served by the East Park reservoir, but despite the fact that in some years the supply has not been adequate to meet requirements, the settlers have been successful. With the Stony Gorge Lake assuring a plentiful supply an active campaign for further colonization is being directed by Dr. Elwood Mead, United States Commissioner of Reclamation. Dr. Mead plans to have 5000 settlers on the land, each farming an average of twenty acres.

California is still having a harder job choosing a suitable figure to represent the State in Statuary Hall in Washington, D. C., than it usually has choosing a national committee-man. The two candidates for the Hall of Fame proposed by the Legislature are Fra Junipero Serra, representing the Spanish civilization of the State, and Thomas Starr King, representing the American era. No opposition has developed to the first named, but the selection of King is less fortunate. Former Senator Phelan is one of the leaders in the opposition to King.

"No longer need to be home hours before meal-time as I did before I got an Electric Range. Now, I prepare the dinner in the morning, place it in the oven and set the controls. I always have the perfect assurance that when we come home to dinner, the food will be cooked and ready to serve. And it will be better than when I had to fuss with a hot stuffy kitchen."

Come in and let us tell you about the Many other advantages of the Electric Range.
